WANTS A CHANGE.

REPORT OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES.

He Indicates Some Needed Reforms in Criminal Proceedings—A Word About "Jury Fixing" in the District—Various Suggestions.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Attorney General Brewster has completed his annual report. It contains a number of suggestions and recommendations looking to new legislation and reformation of existing statutes. One criminal procedure is faulty. In criminal cases the proceedings should be simplified, a uniform system of challenges provided, and the trials short of the technical objections, and numerous dilatory motions that eat up the time of the courts. In preparing indictments for offenses against the United States, it is now necessary to follow the common law forms of the last century, with all their technicalities, verbiage of description, repetitions, so that what would be a simple and concise written accusation, becomes a long and confused mass of descriptions and allegations, wholly unintelligible to both defendant and jury. With a view to remedying the evils, omissions and defects of criminal procedure, Mr. Brewster submits a number of carefully selected forms, and recommends their adoption as general law for the courts of the United States.

In connection with the subject of jury duty he says: "It is the belief and common report that the business of 'jury fixing' flourishes to an alarming extent in this district. It is asserted that men live and support their families, and even become rich, in the practice of this nefarious profession. As the jury system now exists, that unscrupulous men should safely conduct a lucrative business in debauching juries, the district should occasion no surprise. With but twenty-six jurors, such as usually serve, an active jury-fixer would become acquainted with at least two or three of them in a few hours, and that would give him a strong beginning in his efforts to thwart justice. With but twenty-six jurors serving for three months it would not require one-third of that time for a combined force of jury-fixers to become thoroughly acquainted with the habits, associations, characters, and business of each juror, and the influence, if any, that could be used to reach him and bring him within their power. Then again, what is there to prevent one or more well-dressed and apparently respectable-looking rogues placing themselves in the way of the marshal or his deputies to be brought into court as witnesses and serving juries to acquit their friends or confederates?"

He recommends that the statutes authorizing outgoing United States marshals to execute all processes in their hands at the expiration of their commissions be changed so as to require them to turn over to their successors all unfinished business. The present law, Mr. Brewster says, leads to confusion and conflict of authority as well as delay in the settlement of marshals' accounts. He recommends that the United States marshals and district attorneys be paid by the month, and that the present fee system is an expensive one. It is estimated that it costs the government $10.00 in expenses for every $1.00 of the marshals' emoluments, which shows that it would be to the interest of the government to give the marshal a fixed compensation, so as to remove all inducements to perpetrate frauds upon the government and wrongs upon the citizen. The same good in fact of official officers, who apply with even more force to United States attorneys, who examine the accounts of marshals. The emoluments of the attorney ought not to be contingent upon the amount of business done by the officer, but upon the usefulness of his services. He must pay, Mr. Brewster recommends, that the general be given authority to adjust salaries of marshals upon some basis to be fixed by law.

On the subject of United States prisoners the attorney general favors the erection of a penitentiary centrally located and controlled by the United States, in which to confine the prisoners. It is not always possible to secure the treatment and discipline for prisoners confined in state and municipal institutions, best calculated to effect their reformation. United States prisoners, as a rule, are of a lower class of men than the average convict, and are capable of performing better work. If a government prison were erected the convicts could be employed in the manufacture of supplies exclusively for the government. This would keep them employed, and should render the penitentiary almost self-sustaining. It would also avoid any objection to convict labor, while the taxpayers would be supporting almost entirely of the burden of supporting them. If Congress acts upon this recommendation, it is suggested that the penitentiary should be erected at some central point where there are ample railroad facilities for the transportation of the goods manufactured by them.

The star route civil suits the attorney general says have been vigorously pressed. In fourteen cases instructions to bring suit have been given and in six or eight process has been issued and suits commenced.

The condition of the public service Mr. Brewster says, so far as it relates to officials in his department is greatly improved. This is due to the active efforts of the present administration in checking irregularities, curtailing abuses, and promoting frugality and economy. He says that the public service is now in a condition of comparative order and that the public service is now in a condition of comparative order and that the public service is now in a condition of comparative order.

In order to continue this strict supervision of the civil service, the attorney general recommends an ample appropriation by Congress.

Roused from Their Sleep by Fire.

New York, Nov. 23.—Fire broke out early Tuesday morning in the old house embracing three buildings 319 to 323 Broadway, in a tailor store, which did about $3,000 worth of clothing property. The fire started in the rear of the building, and spread rapidly, and was roused from their sleep by the cry of "fire!" Unable to escape by the stairways, they took themselves to the roof, mostly in their night attire, where they were rescued by the firemen. The people suffered very much from exposure, as the night was very cold.

Entertaining the Commander-in-Chief.

Lewistown, Me., Nov. 23.—Grand Army of the Republic Commander-in-Chief John S. Kuntz was tendered a grand reception here Tuesday by local and visiting patriots. A banquet was given at the hotel and a meeting in the city hall was attended by 3,000 persons. Among the distinguished speakers were ex-Governor Garcelon, Senator Frye and Congressman Dingley.

CONDENSED NEWS.

A coal vein has been discovered fifty feet below the surface at Galesburg, Ill. The Cherokee council, now in session, has passed a bill excluding all white persons from the nation.

A burning mill erected at Adrian, Mich., in 1829, by A. J. Constock, was on Tuesday swept away by flames.

A policeman in Brooklyn picked up in the street a man stupidly drunk and nearly frozen, in whose pockets were found a full outfit of burglar's tools.

Mrs. John Milliken, a wealthy resident of Boston, sold peanuts at a booth on the common for twelve hours, Tuesday, on an election day, and realized $100 for charity.

The stars and stripes were on Tuesday hoisted on the old fort in Central park, New York, in honor of Election day, and a number of veterans of the war of 1812 had a banquet.

The late duke of Brunswick bequeathed to the duke of Cumberland an iron safe in his villa at Reitzing, which was found to contain coin and currency to the amount of $500,000.

A medical expert thinks that the large increase in rheumatism in New England is the result of the disease of cold. In colder climates there is very little rheumatism.

John C. Dore, of Chicago, has presented to the Merchants' exchange of St. Louis a plan for improving the Illinois & Michigan canal, and will probably secure its endorsement.

A mob at Davenport, Washington territory, refused to permit the county records to be transferred to the new building, but the appearance of Sheriff Coyle with 100 armed men was the signal for a surrender.

Through Graville, the British foreign secretary, negotiations are being conducted in London between Washington and the Marquis Tseng, which give promise to settle the dispute between France and China.

At Monmouth, Ill., Tuesday, a Texan named H. K. Thompson, who had sustained heavy losses by the failure of the First National bank, shot and killed at H. O. Hubbard, the defaulting cashier, without hitting him.

The wives of a number of leading citizens of Montreal wrote to Lady Lansdowne urging her to intercede with the governor general for a commutation of Mrs. Stuart's death sentence. Dispassionate reports that she is to be surprised for life.

The statue of George Brown, the founder of The Globe, was on Tuesday unveiled in Queen's park, Toronto, by Hon. Alexander MacKenzie. It will be remembered that Brown was finally shot by a discharged employee four years ago.

A customs inspector from Chicago, aided by two special treasury agents, seized at New York about $15,000 worth of goods in possession of Edward Morris, who was reported to have been a Chicago merchant out of considerable sums. The goods were forfeited to the government as smuggled. Morris proves to have been a burglar in Vienna, where his picture adorns the record of his crimes. He has been discharged from arrest, as Governor Glavin deemed the evidence insufficient for extradition.

Big Land-Grabbing Scheme.

BILLINGS, M. T., Nov. 24.—The Rustler publishes an interview with A. J. Graville, an old resident of this town, direct from the Crow reservation, who says positively that J. C. Armstrong, Indian agent, Col. Blake, and others have been assisting in effecting a lease of the Crow reservation to a land syndicate, the terms being 3,000,000 acres for ten years at an annual rental of 1 cent per acre. One interpreter for the Indians received $1,000 for his services. The people of Montana call on the eastern press to assist in preventing this infamous plan to rob 100,000 people of their homes.

JANESVILLE CARRIAGE WORKS

Manufacture and keep in stock a full line of

Carriage Phaetons Open and Top Buggies Platform
And Farmer's Buggies, also Pony and Driving Cart.

We wish to call your attention to the fact that we have just received and entirely down with the front board, making it easy to enter or leave the vehicle; also forming a dust shield when down, which prevents the driving of dirt from the front of the horse and the driver's face. This device should be as low as the lowest of the market, and is a most desirable feature.
